LANA WILSON has given over 100 workshops, writes a column for Clay Times, exhibited in 185 shows and is the author of Ceramics: Shape and Surface. NCECA has produced a DVD about her. She has appeared twice on the Discovery Channel.

This workshop covers unusual construction techniques with soft slabs of clay that will be used to make a teapot, container form, plate, bowl, handles and feet. Three layers of slip will be painted on some clay slabs and then a sgraffito tool will be used to create painterly surfaces. On other slabs a stamped grid technique for functional work will be shown. Also offered: stiff slabs of clay used to make a box with a workable drawer and inset niche, use of intricate multi-level stamps, bas-relief tiles, multi level tiles and making and modifying textures. Questions and laughter will add to the whole mix. Plus there will be many pages of handouts.
